Romney, Percy To Keynote GOP Meet

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Republicans head for Detroit this weekend and their first state convention since their stunning victory over Democrats in the November election.

Third-term governor and party standard - bearer George Romney and newly elected U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., scheduled to speak at the two-day affair.

Election of party officers and GOP State Central Committee members will provide additional highlights along with possible controversy over taxes and the Vietnam war.

Durant Again

Although Republican officials say there are no controversial resolutions under consideration, some expect an attempt by the 14th District, led by Richard Durant, to stir up the convention.

"I presume we'll have the 14th District appearing in their role of opposing income tax and the conduct of the Vietnam war," said State Chairman Elly Peterson.

"They've done it for three years and I presume they'll be there again," said Mrs. Peterson who will be seeking election to a second term at the convention.

Durant, a longtime critic of Romney, has led movements at previous conventions which Romney supporters have labeled as attempts to embarras the Republican governor.

Mrs. Peterson is expected to have little trouble in winning re-election. The former national committeewoman from Marshall apparently will be unopposed.

McLaughlin In

William McLaughlin of Northville is unopposed in his bid for re-election as vice chairman.

A fight appears to be shaping up in the race for second vice chairman. Incumbent Joe Bell faces opposition from Earl Kennedy, a State Central Committee member. Both are Detroiters.

Kennedy is reported to have strong support among outstate delegates.

Some 1,522 delegates and an equal number of alternates are expected to begin arriving Friday morning for a day of committee meetings, county and district meetings and caucuses.

A victory dinnner, celebrating last November's GOP election sweep, is set for Friday night.

As part of a party involvement program, Republicans have invited 2,000 metropolitan area high school students to attend the convention on Saturday.

Invite Youth

"This doesn't mean we're trying to make Republicans out of them, although we'd like to," said party public relations director Hugh Humphrey. "We're just giving them a chance to see what goes on at a political convention."

The convention will end with a general session, set for Saturday and featuring an address by Sen. Percy. Gov. Romney also will attend.

The State Central Committee will meet Friday to approve a budget and consider proposed changes in by-laws regarding standing committees.

Districts also will choose new officers and each will elect four members, two men and two women, to the new State Central Committee.

All JP Terms Extended: Kelley

LANSING (AP) — A 1966 amendment extended the terms of all justices of the peace—not just township justices—to Dec. 31, 1968, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled Monday.

Kelley's opinion was asked by Berrien County Prosecutor John Hammond.

A law which indicated justices of the peace were considered township officers was changed last year, Kelley noted.

The 1963 State Constitution abolishes the office of justice of the peace Dec. 31, 1968. Kelley said the 1966 amendment extending the terms of all justices then in office was intended to avoid elections for short terms.

House Readies Crime Measure

LANSING (AP) — The House Monday night moved into position for passage of a bill to head off restrictions on news coverage of traffic accidents — but in a different form from that approved in the Senate.

The bill is designed to correct an apparent mistake the Legislature made last year when it voted to require a policeman investigating an accident to write his opinion of the cause.

It was intended the opinion should be "for statistical purposes only" — not available to attorneys, insurance companies or the press. But the 1966 measure as passed appeared to rule the entire accident report, not just the opinion, out of bounds to newsmen.

The Senate last Friday passed an amended version requiring the officer's opinion and specifying it could not be used in court but was merely for determining "the number and cause of accidents."

The House bill, which moved into position for third reading and may be up for passage today, deletes entirely the requirement that a policeman include his opinion in his report.

If the measure passes the House in a different form, a conference committee of House members and senators will try to work out the differences.

Both houses met briefly Monday and neither took any major action.

FHA-Vet Loan Rates Remain At High Level

WASHINGTON (AP)—Despite easier credit conditions, interest rates on government-backed home mortgages are likely to remain at their current record high levels during the immediate future.

Both the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration said today they are watching the mortgage market closely but neither sees any quick drop from the current 6 per cent rate permitted on FHA and GI home loans.

"I don't look for anything right away," one government source said when asked about the possibility of lower interest rates on mortages insured by FHA and guaranteed by VA.

Government officials are hesitant to predict when lower FHA and VA interest rates might come. One source said such a move normally would be preceded by meetings of government mortgage officials. He noted this hasn't happened yet.

Lower interest rates are a goal of the Johnson administration this year.

Interest rates on both types of government-backed mortgages jumped last year in three steps from 5.25 per cent to 6 per cent, the legal limit, in an attempt by the government to attract more money into mortgage lending.

Conventional interest rates, meanwhile, went from 5.78 per cent on the average in December 1965 to 6.44 per cent last December on newly built homes, according to figures compiled by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Officials are hopeful that January's average figures, now being compiled by the board, will show the first monthly decline in more than a year.

Tight money — the relative scarcity of loan funds and resulting high interest rates — last year produced one of the worst slumps in home building since the end of the World War II.

New privately owned housing starts, however, have registered substantial gains during November, December and January following October's postwar low.

Court Refuses Osborn Petition

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court turned down Monday for a second time a petition by Z.T. Osborn Jr. for a hearing on his jury-tampering conviction in connection with the 1964 trial of Teamsters Union boss James R. Hoffa.

Osborn, one of Hoffa's attorneys, is under a three-year prison sentence. He also was fined $5,000.

Call For Death Penalty Brings Speck To Alert

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Richard Speck, bored and indifferent during the first hours of his trial on charges of murdering eight nurses, became attentive and alert after the prosecution announced it would ask the death penalty.

Two women were the first potential jurors selected Monday. The women, tentative selections to the group of peers who will decide the guilt or innocence of Speck, 25, were not sequestered overnight.

They were chosen from 15 veniremen during the first day of the trial presided over by Judge Herbert C. Paschen of Chicago. In a news conference prior to the trial, Judge Paschen ruled that questions asked of prospective jurors may not be published.

This ruling was added to his list of restrictions on news coverage of the trial. Other restrictions include a ban on sketching in the courtroom and on publication of jurors' names.

Speck spent the night in the sheriff's lockup of the courthouse instead of his isolated cell at the city jail. He was transferred in a closed van from the jail to the courthouse in bitter cold Monday, guarded by a cordon of police and led to the courthouse entrance by two officers manacled to his wrists.

Speck slouched in his leather-seat swivel chair and rubbed the bridge of his nose with his thumb and forefinger as prospective jurors were sworn. He rested his head in his raised left hand as Judge Paschen read each of the eight indictments, consolidated for the trial, which accused Speck of strangling and stabbing eight student nurses July 14 in their residence on Chicago's South Side.

Persons entering the courtroom were searched thoroughly by court officials. Even seemingly harmless items such as fingernail files were confiscated.

San Antonio Wins

Romney's Race Likened To JFK

DETROIT (AP)—Pollster Lou Harris today likened Gov. George Romney's front-running, unannounced position on the Republican nomination for president to that of Democrat John F. Kennedy's following the 1958 elections.

Harris was Kennedy's private pollster as Kennedy rode a front-runner stance into the 1960 Democratic nomination and the presidency. Harris' views were expressed in a speech before the Economic Club of Detroit.

Harris, whose latest newspaper polls, have Romney leading former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, 59 to 41 per cent, said whether the third-term Michigan gets the nomination depends almost entirely on Romney.

The governor has a "clear shot at the nomination," he said, adding: "It's up to Romney to move out and get it."

Romney currently is on a sentiment-sampling political swing through the West, but has shied away from actual announcement of candidacy. His entry, however, is considered a certainty by many.

Harris said Romney's biggest hurdle with the voters may be Vietnam.

"It's not so much they oppose hiis policy. . .it's that he hasn't taken a stand," Harris said regarding Romney and Vietnam, adding that voters "worry about his (Romney's) experience" in foreign affairs.

Govt. Offers 4% Plus Bonds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is expected to unveil today a new higher interest savings bond it hopes will attract up to $1 billion over the next year to help fight the Vietnam war.

An interest rate of between 4.5 and 4.75 per cent will be offered only to persons who buy savings bonds on the payroll savings plan or the bond-a-month plan.

The Treasury Department scheduled the kickoff for its 1967 bond drive with a closed circuit telecast at luncheon bond rallies in 32 cities.

Last February, the government raised the interest rate on Series E and H savings bonds—the types most frequently bought by the public—from 3.75 to 4.15 per cent.

Before today's luncheon, spokesmen for the savings and loan industry, which protested the new bond starting last year, predicted the department would offer an interest rate of about 4.6 per cent.

Even a 4.5 per cent rate is too high, said the National League of Insured Savings Associations.

Financial institutions feel a high interest government bond might drain deposits from them.

86 Vehicles Blasted Out Of Supply Convoys

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots today reported their biggest bag of North Vietnamese convoy traffic in months, claiming 86 trucks destroyed or damaged as they headed south with war supplies.

In South Vietnam, widespread but small ground actions were reported Monday with American forces reporting 266 enemy killed and South Vietnamese troops claiming 76 more Communists killed in five engagements. U.S. Marines were credited with most of the American action.

The U.S. military command said American fighter-bombers caught a big North Vietnamese convoy of at least 127 large van-type trucks at the Mu Gia Pass Monday. U.S. pilots were diverted from other targets to join in the assault on the convoy.

The North Vietnamese apparently were attempting to push supplies through the mountain pass leading into the jungle-covered Ho Chi Minh Trail through Laos and down to South Vietnam.

475th Plane Lost

The weather cleared in the southern part of North Vietnam Monday, and the U.S. command said more than 90 missions were flown. It announced the loss of one plane, a carrier-based F4 Phantom jet which was shot down by groundfire. The two crew members are missing, a U.S. spokesman said.

It was the 475th U.S. plane reported lost in combat over the north.

U.S. headquarters also announced that one plane went down Monday in South Vietnam, where American pilots flew 512 strike sorties against enemy positions.

The plane, an A4 Skyhawk, crashed after making a bombing run on a fortified position 30 miles southeast of Quang Ngai City on the central coast. A spokesman said ground fire was reported in the area. The pilot steered his plane out to sea, bailed out and was rescued by a U.S. Navy coastal boat, the spokesman said.

Hit In Pass

The long truck convoy at the Mu Gia Pass was first spotted by Air Force planes, then Navy and Marine fighter - bombers were called away from other targets to join in the assault.

Pilots reported numerous secondary explosions, indicating bomb hits on ammunition or fuel supplies.

Other Navy pilots reported destroying 20 railroad boxcars 10 miles south of Thanh Hoa.

In the ground fighting, U.S. Marines reported 214 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed in a series of small unit actions in the northern provinces of South Vietnam. American Army units accounted for the other 52 enemy dead, also in small scattered contacts. No major engagements were reported.

1st In New Drive

U.S. headquarters disclosed that elements of the American 1st Infantry Division were engaged in a new and so far uneventful operation called Tucson. A spokesman said several battalions of the division launched the drive Feb. 14 in an area 38 miles north-northwest of Saigon. The infantrymen reported killing 13 enemy so far while taking light casualties themselves.

The U.S. destroyer Maddox reported blasting a large Viet Cong ammunition dump 41 miles south of Saigon near the mouth of the Cua Dia river in the Mekong Delta. The destroyer's barrage of five-inch shells started two large fires in the dump and triggered more than 30 secondary explosions which were visible from the destroyer seven miles away.

Lansing Firemen Ask $1,644 Raise Package

LANSING (AP) — Lansing firemen asked the city Monday for raises of $558 this year and another $1,086 next year to bring top firefighters' pay to $8,500 a year.

The $8,500 would be more than any Michigan fire department pays now but 47 communities already pay more than the current Lansing top salary of $6,856, said Gary Thomas, local Firefighters Union president.

The firemen asked that negotiations on pay for the 1967-68 fiscal year begin immediately.

A $324 raise last July 1 gave Lansing firemen salaries ranging from $6,164 to start to $6,856 after four years. The firemen seek a range from $7,859 to $8,500 in 1967-68.

They also asked for lump sum payments of $558 a man July 1, 1967, to make up the current difference between policemen's and firemen's pay. Engineers would receive an additional $366 and deputy chiefs $408 under the proposal.

City negotiators had told the firemen they could not unlock the city treasury at this point in the fiscal year to boost current pay and urged the firemen to concentrate on next year.

Lansing firemen recently staged a three-day rebellion, marked by 37 suspensions and numerous sick calls, in a dispute over nonfirefighting duties of firemen.

Thomas said then that dissatisfaction over the city's negotiating practices might have prompted some of the men to rebel.

Snow Is Deepest; Deer Peril Grows

The snowline is the highest that it's been all winter in the Upper Peninsula and the winter severity index is past the point in some areas where deer begin to die from exposure.

The outlook for survival of the deer herd is dark at this mid-winter point. The reports of killing of yarded deer by dogs and predators increase and there are increasing reports from loggers and from conservation officers of fawns with puffy faces, one of the signs of famine.

Everywhere the deer are tightly yarded and not moving out and their chance to reach higher for cedar boughs and other browse has slipped with deterioration of the hard crust that resulted from the ice storm of a few weeks ago. It no longer bears their weight.

Joseph Vogt, game biologist of the Conservation Department in the Escanaba District, reports the following winter conditions in the three districts in the western and central U.P. as of Monday:

District 1, Baraga: Weather changeable, fair and mild to snow squalls and very cold. L'Anse 30 degrees to -20, Wakefield, 30 to -17; Bergland 3.4 feet of snow; Ewen and Watersmeet snow minimum 1.6 feet, average 2.2 feet. Winter severity readings: Baraga 79.1 Wakefield 112.5, (Deer start dying at 100.)

Deer confined to yards and cuttings with conditions critical in many yards and deer feeding on balsam and other starvation diets.

District 2, Crystal Falls: Overcast and cool; fairly heavy snow showers. Temperatures 38 degrees to -10, snow 2 to 2.2 feet, with the latter reading in mid-Menominee County, a very unusual depth, causing tight yarding of deer. Deer seem in fairly good condition and concentrated in cuttings; more evidence of predator kills and dog kills.

Winter severity index: Crystal Falls 75.6, Mid-Menominee County, 79.9, an unusually high reading.

District 3, Escanaba: Seasonal temperatures, more snow and strong winds. Temperature 35 to -10 degrees with snow depth readings of 1.4 feet at Ensign, 3.3 at Chatham, 2.3 at Champion, 2.1 at Big Bay and 2.5 at Gwinn and an average of 2.3 feet.

More coyote kills of deer reported. Severity index 79.5

City Problems In Discussion

Escanaba city officials will join officials from other Michigan cities and villages in meeting with members of the State Legislature in Lansing Wednesday and Thursday to discuss the problems facing local government today and in the future.

Representing Escanaba at the conference will be Mayor Harold Vanlerberghe, Councilmen H. George Nelson, George Rusch, and City Manager George Harvey. They will fly to Lansing Wednesday morning.

Over 700 municipal officials, legislators and guests are expected at the state legislative conference, sponsored by the Michigan Municipal League.

The two day conference is designed to improve communications between local officials and the State Legislature and to acquaint municipal officials with the legislative process. Activities will include general information sessions, specific program area discussions, a Washington's Birthday Banquet, a luncheon presentation by Gov. George Romney, and an opportunity for municipal officials to view the legislature in action.

The conference highlight will be the Washington's birthday banquet. The cities and villages will host the legislators from their individual legislative districts.

The Thursday morning session (held at the Jack Tar Hotel) will open with a presentation by former municipal officials who are now Legislators on how local government leaders can best communicate with their legislators. Members of the panel include Rep. Jack L. Gingrass, Iron Mountain.

January Living Cost Is Stable

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate considers today whether to raise the national debt ceiling — a step the Treasury says is necessary if the government is to pay all its March bills.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted relatively easy passage of the administration measure to hike the debt limit $6 billion to $336 billion.

While the Senate attempted to solve the government's financial problems, the Bureau of Labor Statistics had a word of economic cheer for the average citizen.

Bureau Commissioner Arthur M. Ross reported Monday that the cost of living remained steady last month and showed a gain of only two-tenths of 1 per cent in a three-month period ending in January.

Ross interpreted the recent stability of living costs as a "satisfactory trend" but stopped short of calling it a steady trend.

Cost of living figures released Monday showed the January price index held steady from December at 114.7. That means consumers paid $11.47 in January for goods that would have cost them $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Firs Damaged

Area Forester William Mahalak, Naubinway, of the Mackinac State Forest reports heavy damage to balsam fir in west Mackinac County after the freezing rain and snow that occurred in the area in late November. Trees were uprooted and broken off. Salvage is expected to be done next spring when the heavy snow cover is gone.

Hot mineral water from the Yampah hot springs is used to clear the snow from the streets of Glenwood Springs, Colo.

Gifts Of Blood Will Save Lives

The Red Cross bloodmobile will come to Delta County this week, and it will leave with between 200 to 300 pints of blood—in return for which residents of the county get blood when they need it without charge for the blood itself.

The bloodmobile will be at the James T. Jones School in Gladstone on Wednesday from 3 to 7 p. m.

Then it will move to the Teamsters Hall in Escanaba where the hours will be from 2:30 to 7:30 on Thursday, and from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. on Friday.

Where does the blood go that is collected in Delta County?

That question is answered by Dr. Roland Berry, pathologist, St. Francis Hospital.

"The files of St. Francis Hospital blood service for October, November and December of 1966 shows that 83 patients received transfusions in that period, indicating where much of the blood goes," he reported.

"For each of these patients blood was either life-saving, or was of significant help in the treatment of the illnesses for which they were hospitalized. All of the nearly 200 pints of blood these 83 people received came from the nearly 200 people who donated their blood through the Red Cross program," Dr. Berry pointed out.

"While the occasional patient with sudden, dramatic hermorhage needing 10-20 pints of blood attracts attention to the availability of blood, the less dramatic day-to-day needs of patients for two, three or four pints are those for which such a program is an even greater service—and a service is always present day after day and year after year."

Of the 83 patients given blood in October, November and December, only eight received more than four pints of blood, Dr. Berry continued.

"These eight patients used 59 pints and each of these people is living only because the blood was available," he said. "Five of these eight patients were under 40 years old. One was a 35-year-old mother whose children have a mother today because of the good will of the people who donated the blood she received."

"For our community, the Red Cross has offered the most effective program that we have been able to achieve for making blood available to all of our people," Dr. Berry added.

"Approximately 300 patients can be predicted to require blood during the next year. Support of the Red Cross blood program will assure that these people get blood when the need for it arises," he said.

"The reasons will range from bleeding ulcers, kidney disease, difficult surgery, cancer, severe anemia, to automobile accidents and accidental gunshot wounds."

"Many of them will not survive without the blood and many of them will not regain their health promptly without the generosity of the donors who give when the bloodmobile comes to Delta County," Dr. Berry concluded.

Blood Donor Test

It is easy to be a blood donor, the Red Cross reports.

Donors must be not less than 18 nor over 60 years old to be accepted. Persons between 18 and 21 are required to have written parental or guardian consent.

However, if the 18-21 donors are married or in active service in the Armed Forces, the consent is not required.

Should you have been ill recently, or had major surgery within the past six months, or pregnancy within past 12 months, you are unacceptable. Any history of jaundice is cause for rejection.

If you are in doubt, come to the bloodmobile and let the physician make the decision.

His Greatness Endures

Time is the severest judge of greatness. Though the debunking school of historians performs a useful service by cutting folk heroes down to human size occasionally, the men that a nation reveres for generation after generation are usually deserving of that honor.

It is 235 years since the birth of George Washington. In our kindergartens, walls are decorated with cutouts of hatchets and cherry trees, mythical symbols of Washington's unswerving rectitude. Older students learn that he commanded the Continental Army during the War of Independence, that he later became first president of the United States. American history majors in college may make more detailed study of his military campaigns, his contribution to the writing of the Constitution, the actual crises he faced as chief executive.

* * *

But for most of us, Washington was the man who won the Revolution, the wealthy but democratic aristocrat who lived at Mount Vernon and became the Father of His Country, the man whose birthday is an excuse for a holiday. We are content to let it go at that.

If that were all there was to it, why then should Washington be as equally respected by professional students of history? Because his greatness holds up even under the most critical examination of his life and works.

There have been abler generals in American history, more successful businessmen, more energetic and innovative presidents. The simple fact remains, however, that without Washington there would have been no Revolution, no Constitution, probably no United States as we know it today.

Washington's leadership alone virtually held together the tiny ragtag American army during the long years of the war. He was the only man respected enough by all factions to preside over the Constitutional Convention of 1787. He was the only man who towered above partisanship, the only possible choice for president of a new federal government that no one was at all sure could work.

We venerate him not only because of his place in history, however. His memory is a continuing inspiration to living men, who must face the crises and changes of their own times. Because of this, Americans 235 years from now will honor George Washington.

North Western Merger

An Interstate Commerce Commission hearing examiner is taking testimony in Chicago on a proposal that the ICC bless the merger of the Chicago & North Western Railway and the Milwaukee Road. The roads have approved the union and now it's up to the government.

Only two thoughts in opposition to the merger suggest themselves.

1. Other railroads might have another choice for the bride or bridegroom in the wedding, because it would affect their service and income.

2. Communities now served by both roads might want to keep it that way, thinking that the competition might help them.

There might also be an overriding thought that the more carriers there are in the nation's transportation network the better for everyone; that competition is the lifestream of our economic system and that mergers to create transportation giants work against this principle and pose a public peril.

Now the nation's railroads, with the help of the In- that make the merger not only desirable but apparently necessary.

Our national railroad system grew out of private enterprising and that made it duplicatory and competitive, but it made a huge contribution to the nation's economic development. Under new conditions of competition with highway truck movement, barge lines, airlines and pipelines it lost a lot of business, but, worse, found itself in poor condition to compete for the business which it could serve logically and efficiently.

Nearly half a century ago Congress recognized this problem and tried to design a national rail system. (It is a concern of the government as well as of the private economy and the public because the nation relies heavily upon it in its defense establishment.)

* * *

But the nation's railroads, with the help of the Interstate Commerce Commission, are trying to do what Congress set out to do so long ago, design a new national railroad system. The U.S. railroad map is undergoing major revision, with 27 railroad mergers approved since 1955 and with 14 others pending.

The history of U.S. railroading is a history of mergers. It took a merger of 10 railroads to form the New York Central's line from Albany to Buffalo in 1853 and now the Central is merging with the Pennsylvania, in a $6 billion corporate unification that is the largest in U.S. history.

Trade sources are predicting that the nation may have only six major rail systems eventually and an ICC official has suggested that the number may be down to 11 in five years. There were 1,243 railroads in the nation in 1916 and there are 380 today, including 76 first class lines.

Almost all proposed rail mergers are opposed. Railroad unions oppose them because they mean reduction in jobs.

The North Western has already acquired two railroads, the Litchfield & Madison and the Minneapolis & St. Louis and its bid for control over the Chicago Great Western has an ICC examiner's blessing. It would be worth $1.2 billion if it gets the Milwaukee Road.

If the Milwaukee Road doesn't merge what's going to happen to it? There are some economies to be had by consolidation and retrenchment and they'd be needed. The Milwaukee has strained itself mechanizing to improve its services and it faces some big financial problems. It's President Curtiss Crippen told the ICC that merger was the only road open to the Milwaukee.

It will face an annual increase in wages and vacation allowances if the increases which the industry has offered the operating and non-operating unions are applied to all Milwaukee Road employes. In addition, recent legislation provides for heavier payroll taxes and improved benefits under the Railroad Retirement Act and Medicare. These increases are estimated at $1.4 million for the Milwaukee. These increased costs come to $8.1 million and the company's average annual net income has been less than $7 million over the past 12 years.

We see economic laws at work here. The wage pressures are getting the pay up and reducing the number of jobs to what the situation can support. The process makes "We want our own railroad" talk archaic.

Romney Candidacy Inspected Early

By RICHARD L. MILLIMAN
Of Panax Newspapers

LANSING — The tour by Gov. George Romney of Michigan of the western states this week is, in a way, a pioneer development of American politics.

Never before has a presidential potential been so thoroughly and closely scrutinized so early in the game.

Romney's six-day schedule beginning last Friday reads like a travel agent's nightmare.

He will have set foot in 10 cities in seven states, traveled on five airlines, stayed overnight in five hotels and one motel.

He will have given at least 10 speeches— four at dinners and fund-raising banquets, three at luncheons, one at a barbecue, one before a joint legislative session in Utah, one at a college convocation in Idaho. In addition, he will have uttered many well-chosen but non-texted words at receptions and other less formal gatherings.

He will have undergone at least four scheduled press conferences, plus sundry other confabs with writers whenever one or more reporter can corner him.

He will have inspected oil fields, watched dog races, helped a fur festival in Alaska, eaten dinner at Aunt Amy Romney's home, visited with the head of his church, visited a rodeo, met countless local and state officials, eaten barbecue, and tossed out the first blanket at a blanket toss . . . whatever that might be.

All of this vigor by a Michigan governor is significant in that this particular Michigan governor might well end up being the Republican candidate for President.

* * *

Every word uttered, every action taken, every reaction noted will be duly chronicled for the entire nation by a group of reporters and political writers accompanying Romney. Close to 50 press personnel at one time or another will be along with the crew, with about 40 reporters making the entire swing.

Such early attention — almost 20 months before the next presidential election — is unprecedented.

It also is unfair, according to some of those around Romney.

"Senator Kennedy in 1960 and Senator Goldwater in 1964 could run around the country making speeches and meeting people without a ripple of national attention," goes one lament within the executive office here.

"But every time Romney goes out of Michigan, the whole press corps is on him like a blanket. It isn't fair, and we're not ready for it."

In previous years, the national press paid close attention to leading potential candidates only weeks before the nominating convention — or at the earliest beginning in the first preferential primary in New Hampshire in March of a nominating year.

But not with Romney in 1967.

One reason for the early attention, according to the reasoning of our executive office source, is the book by Theodore White about the Kennedy-Nixon election of 1960 — "The Making of a President."

White followed in detail the planning and maneuvering by the Kennedy forces especially in their successful campaign for nomination. The Kennedy planning began many, many months before the convention, and White reported on it all, starting with meetings in 1958 in Palm Beach at which the decision to run was made.

As a result of White's explanation of the nominating process, the public now realizes that presidential nominations are not made at conventions, but rather result from long, hard, painstaking work that goes on for more than a year before the actual nomination.

Therefore, reporters — and the public — are paying more attention to leading candidates earlier in the process. That's why so many reporters are dogging Romney on this western trip and other political exposure jaunts around the country.

The reasoning of our executive office sources makes sense.

* * *

A couple of other factors also could have bearing on the fact that Romney is in the spotlight so completely and so soon.

The first is that the public opinion polls — which have come to mean so very much in political prognostication — indicate Romney could defeat President Johnson, and could make the best run of any Republican against the President. It is unusual that the polls should indicate such popular support for Romney so early in the game, and this fact adds to his attractiveness as a political news source.

* * *

Still another factor might well be that President Johnson is not really a colorful President, and therefore is less that fulfilling as a news source. The Johnson administration is simply not a reservoir for sprightly copy. Therefore, the pundits tend to go to where the attention is, thereby attracting even more attention; and today, this leads to Romney.

Finally, there is the factor that Richard Nixon slumbers in a self-proclaimed moratorium on politics, hoping, no doubt, that Romney falls on his profile under the intensive public grilling; and after Romney and Nixon, the Republican presidential ranks fall back to generally undeveloped sleeper or compromise candidates, such as Senator Percy, Gov. Reagan, and a few others. Any of these potentials could well develop into a front-runner, but right now the focus is on Romney.

* * *

Many of Romney's backers fear that he will suffer from the close scrutiny the national press is displaying and that too many stumbles — perhaps on the current western swing — will undo their champion.

It is in the nature of political punditry to search out and emphasize shortcomings and drawbacks of public officials . . . to seek out the feet of clay.

Other Romney backers fear that his presidential possibilities rest squarely on the success in Lansing of the Romney tax program . . . that if the tax reform program fails, Romney will be out of the White House sweepstakes.

Such fears by Romney backers are understandable, but largely over-rated. It's true that if either occurs — national stumbling or tax failure — the Romney presidential star may have a bit tougher time rising.

But very little can happen this year that cannot be cured by a couple of resounding presidential primary victories early next year.

And very few advantages piled up this year could withstand a couple of resounding primary defeats early next year.

The presidential game for 1968 is still very much to be played.

The late Charles Lockett of St. Louis used to tell the worst hard-luck story of all time. He was playing rubber bridge with a very bad partner but had managed to get vulnerable. Then his partner dealt and opened with a heart. Charley was looking at a potential grand slam in no-trump but decided to bid six no-trump to be sure of winning the rubber. His partner beamed and bid seven hearts. In those days partner was barred for one round even though the bid were made sufficient, in the same suit, so Charley became dummy at seven hearts.

His partner trumped a club at trick one. "No clubs, partner?" asked Charley.

"No clubs, thank you," replied the partner, who proceeded to draw trumps and fan the hand. Unfortunately, when he fanned the hand he found a club.

In today's hand North had little confidence in South's dummy play but 23 high card points opposite an opening no-trump were too much for discretion. He went right to seven no-trump.

The jack of spades held the first trick. Another spade was led and when East showed out, South wasted no further time. He played the ace of clubs from dummy. He did waste a lot of time later on but it was to no avail. West hung on to his jack of clubs and collected 100 points instead of paying off for a grand slam.

South was unlucky to find four clubs and six spades in the same hand but he had no excuse for not making the grand slam.

There was no hurry about playing clubs. After South found out that West held six spades, he could have cashed the top hearts and diamonds. West would have showed out on the third heart and second diamond so South would know that West held exactly six spades, two hearts, one diamond and four clubs. Then South would have played the clubs correctly and picked up West's jack.

Ann Landers

For Practical Gift Cash Is Unbeatable

Dear Ann Landers: A few weeks ago you wrote in your column, "Show me a divorced couple who feel warmly about each other and I will show you a hypocrite or a pair of liars." Then you added, "There must be an exception somewhere out there in this great big world, but I have never met them."

Well, you are meeting them now, Ann Landers. I would like to introduce myself and my ex-husband.

Ed and I were divorced many years ago but we remained friendly for the sake of our four children. I moved to San Francisco and remarried. Ed remarried soon after. We've kept in touch and there was never any meanness between us.

Last July Ed's wife died. He wrote that he was lonely and didn't want to stay in that big house himself. He invited my husband and me to come and live with him. Since we were barely getting by on our social security we decided to go.

So here we are, the three of us, living decently and respectably and we all get alone fine. The children are very happy about this arrangement, Ed isn't lonely any more and my husband and I love Seattle. I'm not a hypocrite and I'm not a liar. So pleased to meet you, Ann Landers. What do you have to say now? — MRS. R. H.

Dear Mrs.: I am eating my words. Gulp. Gulp.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a reader who complained about a friend who leaves the price-tags on gifts. I believe you called it "gauche" or "cloddish" or something like that.

I go a step further. I leave the sales slip! What would you call me? I try to select useful gifts. If I goof, I want the recipient to exchange it for a gift he can use. A sales slip makes it so much easier for the store as well as for the person who is doing the returning.

I've been stuck with so many impractical gifts and would have appreciated it if the sender had used my system. Any comment? — COLUMBUS

Dear Columbus: The fun of a gift is to have something that was selected FOR you by someone else. If you insist on being so cotton pickin' practical why bother to shop? Why not just send money? Everyone can use a little extra $ and it's a very $oothing $hade of green.

Dear Ann Landers: I am going with a nice man who just loves to dance. The trouble is Lester has two left feet and no rhythm. It is exhausting to keep up with his hopping and leaping but I just don't have the heart to tell him.

Lester has stepped on my feet and torn so many pairs of hose that I have lost count.

Would it help if he took lessons? If you say so I'll suggest it — BARKED SHINS

Dear Barked: Lester sounds like a lost cause. Lessons will not give him rhythm but instruction might help him to stay off your feet. Go ahead and suggest it.

* * *

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting —And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Sportsmen Vote Opposition To Hunt For Does

NEGAUNEE — Delegates from nine clubs affiliated with the Northern Michigan Sportsmen's Association again voted opposition to antlerless deer hunting in the Upper Peninsula.

The action was taken at the association's annual winter meeting at the Negaunee Rod & Gun Club Sunday. The association has long opposed harvesting does and fawns, and the 32 voting delegates reaffirmed that stand.

Of the 23 clubs affiliated with NMSA, the following were represented Sunday: Chassell Sportsmen's Club, Marquette Rod & Gun Club, Munising-Alger Conservation Club, Negaunee Rod & Gun Club, Ottawa Sportsmen's Club (of Baraga and Houghton counties), Republic Sportsmen's Club, Schoolcraft County Sportsmen's Club, Tahquamenon Sportsmen's Club of Newberry and the newly reorganized Northwoods Sportsmen's Club of Mass.

John Madigan, Munising, NMSA president, conducted the day-long meeting, which followed a meeting in the Mather Inn in Ishpeming Saturday night of the association's executive board.

Deer Hunt Requests

Delegates also voted Sunday in favor of a uniform deer season opening date for the entire state on the Saturday nearest Nov. 15. This is the opening date now for the Upper Peninsula. The season in the Lower Peninsula now opens on the third Saturday in November. For the next three deer seasons, however, the Saturday nearest Nov. 15 and the third Saturday in November will fall on the same date.

A proposal by the Chassell Sportsmen's Club calling for opening the archery deer season one week earlier in order to give arohers an oportunity to hunt before the small game season opened was defeated 29 to 1.

However, delegates voted to extend the rabbit hunting season an additional month (it now ends on March 1) and to add at least another month to the ice spearing season (now restricted to January and February).

Goose Breeding Aid

Other resolutions approved asked for:

● Removing otters from the list of protected species.

● Having Michigan cooperate financially with Illinois and Wisconsin in a study of goose breeding grounds in Canada that those two states are helping to support.

● Opening Squaw Lake to year around fishing and spearing of certain species. Proponents of the resolution argued that Lake Angeline in Ishpeming is not designated as a trout lake and is open to year around fishing even though it is stocked with lake trout. They said they favored the same status for Squaw Lake near Republic, which also is stocked with lake trout and splake.

A resolution to close all of Marquette County to beaver trapping was referred to game and fish biologists in the district and to conservation officers for study. They were to consult with sportsmen's club members in an effort to settle the matter.

Seven resolutions proposed by the Menominee Sportsmen's Club and the Irwin Conservation Club of Ironwood were not acted on because neither club was represented.

At the executive board meeting, it was agreed that NMSA clubs should have more contacts with Upper Peninsula legislators. Merwin White, Manistique, District 4 vice president of NMSA, will represent the organization in meetings with legislators in Lansing next month.

C. & H. Reports Record Sales

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Calumet & Hecla Inc., a major copper mining and manufacturing company, reports that profits for 1966 were $6.8 million, equal to $3.16 a share, compared with $4.2 million, the equivalent of $1.91, in 1965.

Sales hit a record $161.9 million, up 19 per cent from $135.6 million in 1965.

The company said in a statement that "the improved performance is due in part to the unusually favorable economic conditions prevailing during 1966."

At the same time it said the company's "continuing gains in sales and earnings evidence Calumet & Hecla's steady growth and momentum, spurred by a capital expenditures program over several years."

The company said it is continuing its copper ore exploration in Michigan's Keweenaw Peninsula and has established a western regional exploration office in Nevada.

It added that exploration activity "was further reflected by the recent appointment of a corporate vice president of geology, James P. Pollock."

Prolific President

Washington Signatures Abound; And Fakes Too

By JERRY KLEIN

If you've always wanted to have something signed by George Washington, it's not a financial impossibility — but be careful.

"Papers signed by Washington are among the most common of all presidential documents. But beware, because they're also among the most commonly forged."

So says a New York expert in autographs who recently sold just a few lines of Washington's handwriting, cut out of an old document, for $1,500. (Other samples of the general's penmanship sell for tiny fractions of that.)

"The forger is never idle," cautions the expert, Charles Hamilton. Fake Washington signatures were a long-time specialty of two forgers who had a special fondness for imitating the general's handwriting: Robert Spring and Joseph Cosey.

Eventually both were caught. But while their pens were active, these two flooded the country with fake autographs, not only of Washington but of Benjamin Franklin and others as well.

Prolific Forger

Spring, who pursued his infamous career during the 19th Century, was one of America's most prolific forgers. He especially liked to fake Washington bank checks dated in the years 1794 to 1799. Hamilton says Spring had the habit of writing Washington's name smaller than the general's genuine signature to conceal the trickery. But today this helps experts to spot the flim-flam.

More recently, Cosey made a career of forging Washington's name and passing the results off as genuine. Sometimes his work was good enough to confuse even experts who should have known better.

"Owning a genuine signature of George Washington is far from impossible," Hamilton says. "The general wrote thousands of things, as there were no typewriters in his day. He also signed thousands of military discharges following the Revolution, for example, and you can buy one specimen or other of his penmanship for relatively little money."

Washington's handwriting changed as the years passed. The signature of the teen-age blueblood is quite different from that of the elderly statesman.

"But if you see a letter, signed 'George Washington,' it's probably a forgery," Hamilton says. Except on some legal documents the first president always signed his name "Go: Washington."

You're probably looking at a fake if you see a Washington letter supposedly written on parchment, too. Hamilton says it's more likely the document was originally someone's lampshade.

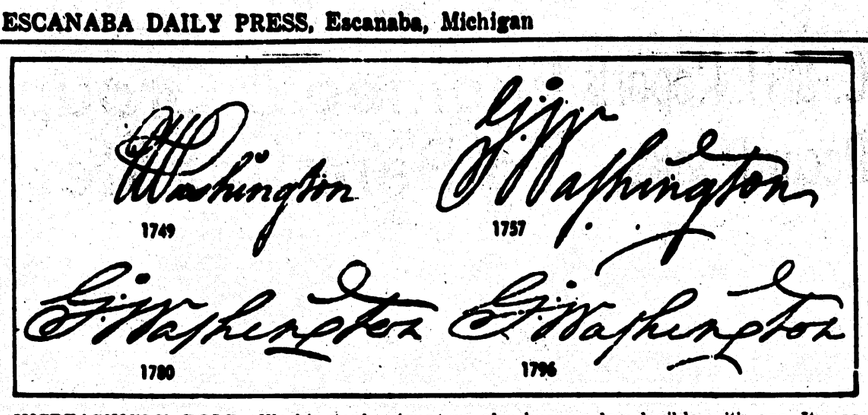
The autograph expert says forgeries usually are on odd scraps of paper rather than full sheets. This is because, in order to secure genuinely old paper, fakers often tear blank pages out of books published long ago. Forgeries by Cosey are noted for their rounded corners and Palmer-style penmanship.

Have It Verified

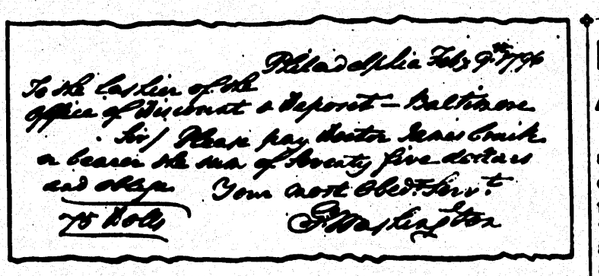
If you think you've got a genuine Washington autograph, Hamilton suggests you have it verified by an expert. He will know whether it's written on the sort of paper used in Revolutionary times; whether the ink is genuine; the style of writing consistent, etc.

"Time and time again, I have seen even supposedly well-informed people fooled completely and cheated out of goodly amounts of money," he says.

Hamilton, who in his career has helped trap and punish several autograph embezzlers, has encountered many a fake letter supposedly penned by Patrick Henry, Mark Twain, Lord Byron, Mary Baker Eddy and others — but forged Washingtons are the biggest drug on the autograph market.



INCREASINGLY BOLD, Washington's signature also became less legible with age. It was neat and decorative in 1749, at 17. But it soon acquired the scrawl characteristic of the general-in-chief (1780) and the chief executive (1796).



IT LOOKS GOOD, but this supposed Washington note is actually a fake by Robert Spring, 19th century forger who specialized in Washington bank checks dated between 1794 and 1799. Spring's habit of writing the first president's signature undersized gives his work away.

Iran Buys Soviet Arms, Steel Mill

Iranian natural gas will pay for most of the purchase.

LBJ Is No Quitter

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The now sharply diminished talk that President Johnson might not be a candidate for a second full term in 1968 never was well-founded.

High party sources scoff at the idea he would ever seriously consider not running—so long as his health holds good.

Lyndon Johnson may be a highly unorthodox chief executive in many respects, but he is strictly conventional in one important way. Like all his predecessors, he wants history to record him as a superior president.

To quit after one full term, with so many major national challenges still unmet or only briefly faced, would be to acknowledge failure on the job and suggest strong fears that he could not win in 1968.

Admittedly, public opinion polls showing him with less than half the voting populace in support of his present performance may stir such fears. But polls change. And, anyway, few leading political figures allow their decision to run or not to run to be guided principally by opinion samplings.

The late Arthur Schlesinger Sr. demonstrated in one of his historical writings that wanting to stay on the job as long as possible was an occupational ailment of the U.S. presidency.

He discovered that the old pre-FDR "no third term" tradition was not so much an honored principle as a reluctantly accepted fact of political life by men who actually aspired to go on and on. James K. Polk was one of the few presidents who sternly limited himself not just to two terms, but to one.

The motivating force in the drive to stay on in the White House was always the deep-felt notion that the experienced incumbent had important unfinished business to conclude—and in any event could do the job better than anybody else on the horizon.

Lyndon Johnson, the man who ascended to White House power with more than 30 years of experience in the federal government under his belt, hardly strikes his friends as one likely to depart from this commonly held attitude among presidential incumbents.

Furthermore, he has another powerful motive for wishing to run and win again in 1968.

For two years now, he has been listening to wise types say that he won big in 1964 only because he had an incredibly weak Republican adversary in Barry Goldwater and was also riding a huge wave of sympathy for the late John F. Kennedy, whose assassination had thrust him into power.

There is evidence that Johnson would like to show he can win well under different conditions — and particularly against stiffer GOP opposition.

All the current indications are that he would get a far tougher race, since polls continue to show Michigan's Gov. George Romney ahead of Johnson by substantial margins.

This being the prospect, and LBJ being governed by the standard presidential compulsion to win the verdict of history, his friends have always been convinced of his intent to make another race.

The fading Washington cocktail-circuit reports that he would bow out seem to have been in large part the product of unhappy liberals, for whom the wish was father to the thought. Many men said it in the hope that Lyndon Johnson would begin thinking what they said he was thinking.

Even at the height of the rumors, however, the more professionally minded Democrats were wary. Parties are not in the habit of dumping one-term incumbents, since it amounts to heavy party self-criticism. After the Democratic governors' anti-LBJ blast at White Sulphur Springs in December, it was significant that many quickly tried to separate themselves from the harsh tone of that assault. They have to live with the man who could be their leader until 1973.

Car Production Low Since 1961

DETROIT (AP) — Bad weather, labor troubles and lagging sales continue to cut into U.S. automobile production.

Automakers reported Monday an output of 146,662 last week, against 199,199 in the corresponding week of 1966. Production, however, was up a couple of thousand from the previous storm-plagued week's 144,756.

Automotive News, an industry publication, reports that so far this year U.S. manufacturers have produced 1,046,735 passenger cars, the lowest number for a similar span since 1961.

The millionth vehicle for 1967 came off assembly lines last Thursday, eight days later than 1966, both Automotive News and Ward's Reports, an industry statistical service, agreed.

Secrecy Cloaks Garrison Probe Of Kennedy Plot

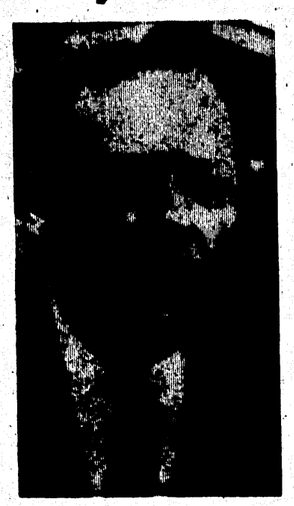
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison says he is clamping strict secrecy on his Kennedy assassination probe. Garrison estimates that arrests are "months away."

The New Orleans district attorney said he would even set up a special fund so he won't have to file public expense vouchers which give a clue as to the activities of his investigators.

Sweating under hot camera floodlights, Garrison reiterated Monday at what he called a final news conference that there "will be arrests, charges and convictions."

Garrison contends that a conspiracy was born here which resulted in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963.

The official report by the Warren Commission said Kennedy was shot by Lee Harvey Oswald—a former New Orleans resident—and that it found no credible evidence anyone else was involved.



Jim Garrison

Sen. Dodd Interested

Garrison's probe has stirred both interest and skepticism. In Washington Monday, Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., urged that the Warren Commission reopen its investigation.

In Detroit, Sol A. Dann, a former lawyer for the late Jack Ruby, telegraphed Garrison urging him to arrange for a federal or state grand jury probe.

Dann sent a similar wire to Louisiana Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion, with the added request that an inquiry be made into "Jim Garrison's information or evidence."

Garrison has said he has no intention now of turning over his information to state or federal officials.

No Foreign Involvement

At the news conference, he said that "premature" disclosure of the investigation by New Orleans newspapers had seriously hampered the investigation. He barred reporters from the city's newspapers from the conference room.

Asked if he thought any foreign country or any official was involved in the alleged conspiracy, Garrison said no. He turned away most questions with "no comment."

Garrison said he expects to obtain convictions for conspiring to kill President Kennedy and for being accessories after the fact—that is, "having substantial knowledge and withholding information."

Glenn Recalls Space Bugaboo

WASHINGTON (AP) — John H. Glenn Jr., first American to orbit the earth, remembers the fears of space that preceded his historic flight—and how they proved groundless.

"The big bugaboo was weightlessness," Glenn told a meeting of the National Space Club on Monday's fifth anniversary of his Mercury Friendship 7 flight.

The former astronaut recalled a widespread fear that the human eye would react unfavorably to weightlessness—that the fluid in the bottom of the eye would be displaced.

"Many ophthalmologists thought that the eye would change its shape, and that this would change the vision so that maybe the man in space would not be able to see at all," Glenn said.

He remembered a small eye chart in the cockpit—like the ones used in doctors' offices but on a miniature scale, since it was set only 22 inches from his eyes.

The purpose was to determine whether his eyeballs did change shape in flight. He also had a color chart to determine whether his color perception changed.

There also was a device to measure astigmatism. In fact, Glenn said, attempts were made in the Mercury program to measure every one of the senses to find out the effects of weightlessness and of acceleration to orbital velocities.

"Then there was the breakaway phenomenon," Glenn said. "Some psychiatrists thought that people going to extremely high altitudes would have the feeling they wanted to keep on going and never come back to earth.

"I never put much stock in this, but I was told to look for any idea I might develop about not coming back."

Handshaking at White House receptions was introduced by Thomas Jefferson. In his autobiography, Calvin Coolidge recalls proudly, "On one occasion I shook hands with nineteen hundred in thirty-four minutes."

Ruppe Urging Consular Pact

Congressman Philip E. Ruppe (R-Houghton) has joined 14 Republican colleagues in endorsement of the proposed consular treaty with Soviet Russia.

"I have studied the treaty in some detail and feel the real benefit will be to the United States," said Ruppe. The Republican congressmen's statement said "At a critical time in international affairs, the ratification of the treaty can serve two clear objectives of U.S. foreign policy:

"1. It can insure that some 18,000 American tourists will be afforded basic protections in the Soviet Union and that our officers in any consulate would enjoy diplomatic immunity.

"2. While the consular treaty is a modest step, it's ratification may encourage greater flexibility in Soviet policy and facilitate improved U.S.-Soviet relations.

"Rejection of the treaty could have serious implications for U.S.-Soviet relations. Our two governments, together and separately, are exploring a number of vitally important subjects: an honorable settlement of the Vietnamese conflict; a non-proliferation treaty; the expansion of non-strategic East-West trade; an avoidance of a major new arms race of a higher order of magnitude involving a new generation of intercontinental ballistic missiles and defense systems.

"Agreement in any of these areas could have a profound impact on the stability of international affairs. Rejection of the consular treaty might create a psychological atmosphere in which serious negotiations with the Soviet Union on any of these subjects would be infinitely more difficult — if not precluded."

High Court's New Trial Rules Free 4 Convicted Killers

NEW YORK (AP) — A factory worker who admitted slaying his wife and five children has been freed because he was not informed of his rights as outlined in an historic U. S. Supreme Court decision last year. His confession was the only available evidence against him.

"Even an animal such as this one, and I believe this is insulting the animal kingdom, must be protected with all the legal safeguards," said State Supreme Court Justice Michael Kern Monday in dismissing the indictment against Jose Suarez, 22.

It was the latest such action in New York City resulting from the Supreme Court decision. Three men were freed in murder trials in New York City last month by State Supreme Court justices after rulings that they had not been informed of their right to counsel before they confessed.

"This is a very sad thing," said Justice Kern in freeing Suarez. "It is so repulsive it makes one's blood run cold and any decent human being's stomach turn to let a thing like this out on the street."

Rights Violated

The U.S. Supreme Court, in a 5-4 decision last June 13, ordered a new trial for Ernest A. Miranda, 26, who had been convicted on charges of kidnaping an 18-year-old girl from a Phoenix street, driving her into the desert and raping her.

The court ruled that Miranda's constitutional rights had been violated when he was not informed of his right to counsel before talking to police.

Suarez was arrested April 27, 1966. Questioned by police, he signed a statement admitting that after his common-law wife, Maria Torres, 24, had cut his leg with a knife during an argument, he seized the knife and stabbed her and the five children more than 100 times. The children ranged in age from 11 months to five years.

No Other Evidence

At the time of Suarez' arrest, New York State law did not require that an accused man be advised on the points outlined in the Supreme Court decision. Thus he was not advised. The Miranda decision applied to him, however, because it was made retroactive to cover all defendants who had not yet been tried.

Authorities sought for seven months to obtain evidence other than the confession against Suarez. They were unsuccessful. He was indicted by a grand jury last Nov. 4. A week later, he retracted the confession and pleaded not guilty.

Believe Lynx Making Comeback In Central Upper Peninsula Area

By BOB VOGES

LANSING (AP)—A lynx has a dictionary definition that includes the description, "large, fierce and wild."

Lynx appear to be making a comeback in Michigan's Upper Peninsula.

And the State Conservation Department Game Division is seriously thinking of doing something about protecting them — despite the dictionary definition.

"The lynx is a very rare and interesting animal," said Dave Arnold of the Game Division.

Do Little Damage

"They do very little damage. It would add quite a lot to Michigan's animal picture if we had a few of them around."

As a seeming contradiction, Arnold said, the lynx actually often will act tamer than the much more common bobcat.

"If a lynx should see somebody it might just stop and stare at him—wondering what he is," he said.

The lynx are so rare in Michigan that they have no protection. A valuable fur-bearer, they can be shot or trapped at any time.

Bobcat also are legal targets any time in the Upper Peninsula. The Lower Peninsula bobcat season is Jan. 1-Feb. 28.

Let Cats Go

Bobcat hunters are a dedicated breed. They follow the animals with dogs and try to tree them. More often than not, the hunters then let the cats go for another run another time.

It is believed the Canadian lynx have been filtering into Michigan across the St. Mary's River from Ontario.

A lynx was killed this past winter in the Upper Peninsula.

During the past few years, there have been about nine lynx spottings in the Upper Peninsula.

Breeding Population?

Due to the persistence of such spottings, it is believed there is now a breeding population of the lynx in the central area of the Upper Peninsula.

The animals apparently have found hideouts in the remote regions there and are not just casual visitors from Canada.

There have been no authenticated cases of lynx being seen in the Lower Peninsula in recent years, the game experts said.

The lynx will take snowshoe hares, squirrels and small rodents.

Don't Prey On Deer

Lynx don't prey on deer. They also don't attack humans, Arnold said.

The lynx are easy enough to tell from a bobcat. They are longer and lankier and the ear tufts are longer. Their feet also are much larger—this enables the animals to lope around on top of the snow.

A black tuft on the end of the tail is another indication you have seen one of Michigan's rarest residents.

McNamara Says War News Fair

WASHINGTON (AP) —Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told senators that in general the news coverage of the Vietnam war has been factual and fair.

But he protested as "disgraceful distortion" reports on use of tear gas and other riot control weapons carried by one newspaper under the headline "U.S. engages in gas warfare in Vietnam."

"The facts were that we never did use anything other than the riot control weapons that are used by every major police force in the world, and the press knew it," McNamara said in testimony given in late January before the Senate Armed Services and Appropriations committees and now made public after heavy censoring.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D.Va., a newspaper publisher and a former director of The Associated Press, asked about press coverage in Vietnam and then added:

"To bring it down to a specific news agency, as the dominant news agency is The Associated Press, which is the world's largest news gathering organization, would you say speaking generally again, that its reporting has been factual and comprehensive and reasonably accurate?"

"Yes, I would say so," McNamara answered.

Earthquake Area

Geological surveyors say that some 80 percent of all earthquakes occur in the so-called "Ring of Fire" surrounding the Pacific Ocean, following in a general way the border between continents and oceans.

WINTER GARMENT often seen in the countryside of Japan is this Mino, or protective garment made of straw, which cuts sharp winds quite effectively. This lad is wearing one at his home near Kyoto.

Sharon Percy May Desert Father's Party

NEW YORK (AP) — Sharon Percy, daughter of Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., has disclosed that she might become a Democrat when she marries John D. Rockefeller IV this spring.

Such a change of politics, she said in the current issue of McCall's magazine, would be out of a conviction that a husband and wife should "think in the same party."

Her husband-to-be broke with Rockefeller tradition when he was elected to the West Virginia Legislature last fall as a Democrat. The couple will be married in Chicago April 1.

The Guernsey breed of cattle was developed on the island of Guernsey in the English Channel, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

UAW Heads To Seek Convention OK For Crusade

DETROIT (AP) — Officers of the United Auto Workers Union now reportedly are going to ask convention approval before commiting $3 million toward an organizing crusade, social action programs and help for small unions seeking recognition or first contracts.

Originally the UAW's 26-member executive board was reported considering making the offer in a 7,000-word manifesto outline to local unions its reasons for what amounted to a threat to withdraw from the AFL-CIO.

But the board decided, top sources within the union say, to put it before the convention on grounds the board's constitutional authority to set aside the money might be questioned.

Added weight which convention approval would give the programs also was a consideration.

Claims AFL-CIO Lags

Asserting that "the AFL-CIO, in policy and program, too often continues to live in the past," the UAW accused it of lagging in organizing, social action in such as the civil rights movement, and in helping struggling unions.

Some sources within the UAW were of the opinion other unions within the AFL-CIO would be challenged to match the UAW's $3 million. Some others thought it might strike out alone.

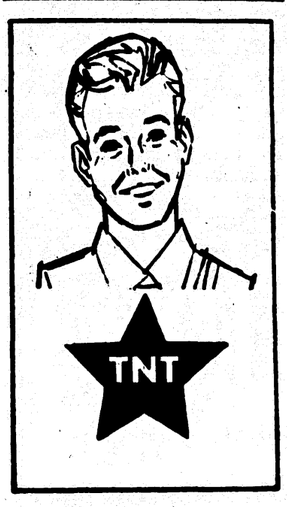
This may be spelled out in what the UAW's manifesto of Feb. 9 said would be a series of "specific policy recommendations in the coming weeks," presumably ahead of the convention.

In its criticism of the AFL-CIO, the UAW called for "a massive organizational crusade to bring the benefits of unionism to missions of unorganized industrial, construction trades, retail and distribution, office, technical, professional, federal, state and local government workers and school teachers and to organize millions of agricultural workers and the working poor in the cities and rural areas of the nation."

Extends "Rights"

It also called for a demonstration of "greater courage and compassion in extending equal rights and equal opportunity to every American—not only at the community level and through new laws—but within the labor movement itself."

Additionally, it proposed establishment of "a united defense fund to promote adequate support for workers under circumstances in which the employer is engaged in an effort to destroy their union or is unwilling to bargain in good faith."



Kalevala Day

LANSING (AP) — Acting Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed Feb. 20-26 as Vocational Education Week in Michigan. He also proclaimed Feb. 28 as Kalevala Day—a Finnish day of celebration named after a famous collection of Finnish historical poems.

Game Stockpiling Theory Dies

Conservation Is Education

Conservation: a word with myriad meaninsg. We have convervation clubs, conservation pledges, conservation books, conservation films, conservation studies in schools and colleges. A survey has shown that state and federal agencies last year had available for free distribution a total of 8,033 publications devoted to various aspects of conservation.

Anyone is entitled to his own notion of what the most important objective of conservation should be; abatement of pollution, salvaging of wetlands, preservation of wilderness areas, game and fish management, legislation, law enforcement.

Get down to brass tacks with the professionals and you'll find that there is general agreement on one subject—the necessity for basic education in natural resources management. Obviously, education should begin as early as possible for those who will be responsible for outdoor values in years to come.

★ ★ ★

An adult concerned with any aspect of conservation will admit, if he has an honest memory, that he has had to unlearn much of what was regarded as gospel, back along the line. Even in the most progressive college courses students were told a generation ago that refuges, sanctuaries, a moratorium on fishing and hunting would make possible the stockpiling of fish and game. Predators should be eliminated. Planting was a logical method of increasing populations of fish and game. New species could be introduced by spilling fish fry into a lake or stream or releasing imported birds or mammals in areas remote from their native habitats.

Planting worked with German carp. It failed with eels. It worked with pheasant. It failed with Hungarian partridge and with reindeer. It has worked, in recent years, in Michigan with elk, wild turkey, coho salmon. Meanwhile, the costly lesson has been learned that no shifting around of wildlife species should be attempted without a cautious scientific approach.

An adult hunter or fisherman is likely to resent facts that aren't in accord with his own notions and interests. He sees the decline of the deer herd, but fails to understand that deer can't increase and flourish any faster than their food supply reproduces itself. He doesn't like to think that pen-reared game birds and hand-fed trout rarely survive when turned loose. An old-fashioned sportsman is likely to take the word of a local poacher rather than heed the counsel of a biologist with a university degree.

At hand is a publication of the New York City Board of Education, a booklet entitled "Operation New York". It is a guide to helping school children to a first-hand knowledge of the outdoors, under what might seem to be the disadvantages of urban living.

Yet in one area — Central Park — children can be shown wildlife and plants in their natural habitat; soil in the process of formation through the decay of vegetation, soil being lost by erosion; evidence in rocks and sand of the earth's ancient history. And what is of chief value, a child can come to understand something of the complex inter-relationships of land, water, plants, animals—the all-important science of ecology (environment).

STATUS SYMBOLS

The sun helmets worn by U. S. naval officers in the Pacific's Palau Islands became status symbols after the Americans left the area, and tribal chiefs forbade storekeepers to sell them to commoners.

Latin Diplomats In Accord Over Summit Agenda

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk heads for home today after helping colleagues from 19 Latin American nations pave the way for an inter-American summit meeting in mid-April to launch a common market for Latin America.

After six days of meetings marked by what one diplomat called "an unbelievable spirit of cooperation," the foreign ministers of the Organization of American States agreed Monday night on the meeting of their presidents in Uruguay and that the southern nations' economies should be united by 1980.

A top diplomat said the decision to go ahead with the common market plan is the most important the Latin-American nations have taken since they became independent.

After the presidents give the plan their blessing, years of delicate negotiations will follow to bring into balance the views and aspirations of the Latin nations. The more industrialized countries want a slow approach. The lesser developed and the smaller ones with limited domestic markets favor a faster pace.

Two issues, both military, remained for the foreign ministers in their conference to plan the summit meeting and amend the 19-year-old OAS charter.

One was a Brazilian proposal to include an item on arms reduction in the agenda for the summit meeting. Although Argentina said some countries need all their arms because of internal security problems, this was not expected to cause major delays in drafting the agenda.

The other more controversial issue is an Argentine proposal to create a permanent military advisory committee for the OAS by an amendment to the organization's charter.

Bust Of Lincoln Gift To Romney

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Utah Legislature — where George Romney's father and brother once served—gave the Michigan governor a bust of Abraham Lincoln Monday after Romney spoke to a joint session.

Senate President Haven J. Barlow, in obvious reference to Romney's possible candidacy for the president, noted:

"The bust has special significance. It is a likeness of Lincoln just before he announced for the presidency in 1860."

GRIME — destroyer of clothes

By Melton McGovern

Grime comes from two major sources. It's either dirt from the atmosphere which gets pressed or rubbed into the garment. Or it's perspiration or skin oils, again pressed or rubbed into the garment. Or both — usually both, in fact.

There is, naturally, no preventive remedy. The atmosphere is never wholly clean. And we do perspire, and our skins exude oils. That's the human being for you, and that's all that can be said.

However, there is a treatment. And this is it.

NEVER PRESS ANY GARMENT THAT IS NOT CLEAN. Pressing or rubbing imbeds the grime more deeply, and causes it to penetrate the fibers of the fabric. The result is that the fabric in the garment will deteriorate more rapidly.

We therefore recommend that, in addition to being sure the garment is clean before it's pressed, you CLEAN YOUR CLOTHES OFTEN. It has been demonstrated time and time again by every test known, that a garment which is regularly cleaned outwears one that isn't, by a wide margin. In fact, a hundred cleanings cause less wear than one week of wearing while soiled! Which means your clothes look better longer when you clean them often.

So, for clean clothes, with all the grime removed — CALL OR BRING THEM TO

SAMs Hit One In 48 Trys At U.S. Aircraft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources said today North Vietnam's Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles are scoring only one bull's-eye in every 48 attempts to hit U.S. planes.

Such figures prompted Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to tell Congress the missiles "are not worth stealing in my opinion."

Beyond the direct plane losses to SAM's, however, there are the U.S. fighters which are hit by ground antiaircraft batteries after being forced to maneuver below the high-soaring missiles.

Sources report that the missiles are not as inferior as they appear at first glance.

"We are using some pretty sophisticated countermeasures against them," one officer said. "It takes a pretty good radar operator to run the SAM system in the kind of environment that the North Vietnamese are faced with. You don't take a Hanoi high school graduate and give him the necessary training overnight."

He was referring to the advance warning American pilots get against SAM's through radar.

By making a sort of reverse S maneuver, the fighters can swing beneath the arching, slow-turning SAM's.

While sources say the SAM's have bagged only 33 planes, the Pentagon said Feb. 6 that 469 planes had been lost on combat missions over North Vietnam. The other 436 were presumably lost mostly to groundfire.

Sources report that as of Feb. 15, the North Vietnamese have fired 1,588 radar-guided SAM's for an .021 batting average.

District Faces Budget Trouble

Carl Ahlin, president of the Bark River-Harris Board of Education told it at its meeting Feb. 13 that with the loss of personal property taxes and Governor Romney's proposed state aid formula for school children, it will be "extra difficult" for the district to prepare a balanced budget for the coming year.

The architectual firm of Zwack and Peeples of Appleton, Wis., sent a representative to the meeting to show slides of construction and present the firm's qualifications as a planning agency for the new high school which the Bark River-Harris School District is proposing.

The following bus bids were received: Bodies: McFadden Corp., $4124; Superior Coach, $4219. The board accepted the low bid of McFadden. Chassis: Town & Country, Iron Mountain, $3,640; Coyne Chevrolet, Escanaba; $3,579; Escanaba Machine, Escanaba, $3,590; Northern Motor Co., Escanaba, $3,517.19. The low bid of Northern Motor Co. was accepted.

R. Nicholson Dies Monday At His Home

He is survived by two stepsons, Harold Minor of Wells and Kenneth Minor of Chicago; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Gordon (Blossom) McKenzie of Milwaukee and Mrs. Earl (Eleanore) Smith of Wells, six grandchildren and three great grandchildren; three brothers, Chris, Peter and Elmer Nicholson of Escanaba; one sister, Mrs. Albert Larson of Escanaba.

Friends may call at the Anderson Funeral Home from 4 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday and complete funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday at the funeral home with Rev. Roger Patrow officiating. Burial will be in Lakeview Cemetery.

Youths Held On B & E Charges

Three young men from Escanaba were bound over to Circuit Court for trial today by Justice A. J. Mortier of Gladstone after all waived examination when arraigned on charges of breaking and entering.

Held in the Delta County jail in lieu of $1,500 bond are: Paul E. Johnson, 21, of 1008 2nd Ave. N., John Christianson, 19, of 322 N. 11th St., and Robert S. Trombley, 19, of 1009 2nd Ave. N.

State Police said Christianson and Johnson were charged with entering a cabin on Portage Point and that Trombley was charged with entering a cabin in Nahma Township.

The three young men were originally arrested Sunday night by Gladstone Police. Charges of breaking and entering were made Monday.

Gladstone Police charged Johnson with furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors and Christianson and Trombley with being minors in possession. All pleaded guilty to the charges when arraigned Monday before Mortier.

John was ordered to pay $60 fine and $10.60 costs or serve 30 days, while Christianson and Trombley each were fined $30 and $8.60 costs with an alternative of 15 days in jail. All three failed to pay their fines, police said.

Logs Get Tiffany Handling

By JEAN WORTH

A log was a log was a log, as Gertrude Stein would have said, not so many years ago in the Upper Peninsula and it had been that way since the first trees were cut in the area in the 1830's.

The trees were chopped down at first and hauled to the rivers with oxen. Then crosscut saws replaced the axes and horses replaced the oxen, but log lengths remained pretty much the same.

The buckers cut the tree trunks up into logs that measured 10 feet, 12 feet, 14 feet or 16 feet. That was for sawtimber and the length depended upon what the tree would "make," that is, how much good grade wood there was in the stick.

There wasn't any consideration of the mill's needs, but all that is changing today and what the veneer mills want is what the sawyers cut in the woods. Goodman Division of Calumet & Hecla, Inc., is a front mover in this new effort to tailor logging to mill needs and its Mellon, Wis., veneer mill showed visitors the fine results of the program at a public open house on Feb. 18.

Cut To Fit

General Manager A. C. Baudek of Goodman Division says "We are 'manufacturing' logs in the woods now," meaning that they come to the mill ready for maximum efficiency use, cut to size so there's no waste.

Logs for veneer mills, of course, are the best produced, sound and clear and in good condition. Goodman Division gives them a tiffany treatment that includes a metal tag in the end with a number on it. The number is the key to the log's record, and its card shows its scale in board feet, its grade, its cost, who supplied it and other pertinent information.

More Coming

The old "woods run" of logs, which sent random lengths and species to the mill, is gone. Logs are assigned to usage for veneer, sawtimber or pulping. If they come out of Goodman Division's own forests like that at Goodman, Wis., they are products of a sustained yield operation which has been cut five times already and which has more wood volume in it today than when it was acquired.

JACK NOBLET, director of forestry and lands for Goodman Division of Calumet & Hecla, Inc., shows what happens when logs are cut odd sizes in the woods. These are high quality maple veneer log ends at Goodman Division's Mellen, Wis., veneer plant. They had to be trimmed several feet to fit the veneer lathes. This high quality waste goes to the stoves and furnaces of Mellen homes.

The Upper Peninsula, by the way, will have much more veneer timber in it 20 years from now than it has today. The U. P.'s new forests are now emerging from pole size to sawtimber size and will produce increasing volumes of sawtimber and its rich cousin, veneer timber.

Jack Noblet, director of forestry and lands for Goodman Division, says "you wouldn't buy a size 11 shoe if you had a size 9 foot and we think the same way about veneer logs. If we can only use 8 foot logs, what do we do with a log that's 10 feet long?"

All logs that it "manufactures" itself are now in multiples of the length that the veneer lathe or slicer uses. The practice, when education extends it to all log suppliers will end the waste pile of cut-off log ends in odd sizes at the mill.

"You'll note that there are no snipes on our logs," said Noblet, referring to the clean-sawed faces, devoid of the ragged edge left on some butt logs in felling. When logs bring suppliers $100 a thousand board feet for elm, $125 for oak and twice that for birch, the loggers can take pains.

Economic Usage

At the mills the effort to get the very most out of these high grade logs will change the veneer lathes so that smaller logs may be used and cut to smaller cores. Noblet warns that there must be caution with this process. When a market is created for smaller trees there is a temptation to harvest them as soon as they're merchantable and this can send trees to the wrong woodpile and at the wrong age.

"You can find veneer logs being pulped at the paper mills," said Noblet. "Not a lot of them, but one is too many. We have seen yellow birch cut in 10 inch diameter for pulp when it should eventually be veneer logs."

Much more can be done to upgrade the worth of northern hardwood forests, says Noblet, "and industry can do more. Unless it does more the federal, state and county governments will do it and I'd hate to see that.

Logging Improves

"Lake State logging is getting more sophisticated. It is now putting to use the practices that have been preached for 50 years. We are thinning the second growth forests and putting their products to the right use. I can see us turning the corner.

"At Goodman we are logging 11 months of the year now and even cutting pulp 11 months, although we don't haul all 11 months. It is the only way to get a woods worker's income up from $3,000 to $7,000 or $8,000 by keeping him fully employed.

After Windstorms

"We are concerned today with the 'economic maturity' of timber. Maple that is 24 inches in diameter is beyond economic maturity. It probably should have been cut at 18 inches. We watch timber and test it to get the most value. Diameter doesn't mean much any more; economic quality does.

"We hang a dollar sign on every tree and when it only earns 3 per cent 'interest' we get it out fast. It can be adding growth but losing value, depending on age, site conditions, soil and other factors. A tree is like any plant; it reaches a point where it starts going downhill.

"Some day we're going to see forest fertilization. They are doing it in Europe and Japan and it's going to come here.

"After windstorms we fly inspections of our forests and take out the down timber and we harvest from a million to a million and a half board feet a year in this process. Hardwood is so perishable that rot sets in unless it is harvested right away."

THERE'S NO WASTE in these high quality veneer logs, cut to exact size for veneer manufacture at the Mellen, Wis., mill of Goodman Division of C&H, Inc. East log has a numbered metal button that is a key to its record. (Escanaba Daily Press Photos)

Greek Theater Needs $450,000

YPSILANTI (AP) — The Ypsilanti Greek Theatre, which opened last summer to wide acclaim by critics from throughout the United States, is broke.

Unless $450,000 can be raised by March 1 from private sources, the theatre will fold. Of a needed $500,000 to meet an operating loss of about $100,000 and provide a base to begin anew this summer, only one $50,000 pledge has been received. That pledge is conditional on establishment of a new season.

Although the opening was attended by nearly 100 critics and drew considerable praise, attendance last summer was slim. It is the only theatre in the world presenting Greek drama in English.

Income Tax Wins In Grand Rapids, Loses In Bay City

Grand Rapids voters approved a city income tax Monday but Bay City residents rejected a similar proposal.

Voter turnout in cities and villages across Michigan was reported generally light.

Bernard Apol, assistant state director of elections, said the number of primaries was not as great as in past years. He said a new law restricted the ballot to parties which qualified for the statewide ballot — Republican, Democrat and Socialist Labor.

Villages traditionally used such party labels as Union, Peoples', Citizens, but these are now out, he said.

Bill Would End Daylight Time

LANSING (AP)— Passage of a bill to exempt Michigan from the Federal Uniform Time Act would mean the state would not need to observe Daylight Saving Time, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled today.

However, the federal Department of Transportation could still change time zone boundaries and place the state's two peninsulas in different zones, Kelley added.

Kelley's opinion came in answer to questions by Sen. Thomas Schweigert, R - Petoskey. Schweigert is president pro tem of the Senate, which now is considering a bill to exempt Michigan from the federal act, which would require states to observe Daylight Saving Time during summer months.

Three Conference Crowns Remain Undecided In U.P.

Iron Mountain and L'Anse joined the championship ranks of Upper Peninsula conference teams over the weekend, leaving only three leagues without titlists entering the final weekend of regular season action.

The Mountaineers clinched the Menominee Range pennant with a 71-61 decision over runnerup Crystal Falls.

L'Anse, unbeaten state class C champion, took the Copper Country trophy by whipping defending league titlist, Hancock by a resounding 103-56 margin. The Hornets extended their victory string to 24 games including 16 this season.

In the Escanaba area, Trenary nailed down its first Central League crown by defeating Garden, 60-43, and the Escanaba Eskymos tucked away the Great Northern championship by trimming Holy Name, 97-52.

Still in doubt, mathematically, are the final leaders in the Big Seven, Mid-Peninsula and Eastern loops. Hermansville has clinched at least a tie for the Big Seven crown and needs only a victory over lowly Alpha Friday to take it all.

DeTour has the upper hand in the Eastern race and can take sole possession of the championship with a victory over Cedarville Friday. The Trojans will share it if they are able to down DeTour in the season finale.

Champion is in the same boat in the Mid-Peninsula, heading into tonight's game against runnerup Republic.

The champions in the other U. P. leagues are Ishpeming in the Great Lakes, Ewen in the Porcupine Mountains and Wakefield in the Michigan-Wisconsin.

Albeck Praises Yagodzinski As Wildcat Leader

Stan Albeck, Northern Michigan University head basketball coach, lauded former Holy Name athlete Con Yagodzinski in a talk to the Escanaba Kiwanis Club at Marco's Restaurant Monday.

Yagodzinski, greatest scorer in Holy Name High School basketball history and an All-State choice in his senior prep season, is a 6 foot 5 inch senior forward and co-captain of Albeck's Wildcat quint.

"Yago is a credit to his home town of Escanaba and to our Northern squad," the Bradley Hall of Famer told his audience. "He is a fine influence on our younger kids, the juniors and sophomores we have had to depend on this season," Albeck said.

Yagodzinski last week became only the third player in Northern Michigan University history to score 1,000 or more points in a varsity career. He is currently Northern's team scoring leader with 304 points for a 15.2 per game average. He is also the second leading rebounder on the squad with 176 in 20 games.

Albeck, in his 10th season at Northern, traced the current campaign briefly and outlined some of the top college competition scheduled for next year. Northern has a 10-10 record to date, after losing six of its first seven starts this season.

Albeck closed out his program with a film of Northern's practice routine and conditioning drills.

The Northern mentor was introduced by John Butrymowicz, Holy Name High School basketball coach and athletic director. Manley Anderson was program chairman.

State Class D Picture

Ewen Regarded Top Threat In Tourney

By WILLIAM T. HALLS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The word around Class D high school basketball locker rooms this year is "Covert's had it."

Those fastbreaking whooping cranes who lifted the Bull Dogs to back-to-back state championships in 1965 and 1966 have graduated and the West Michigan club isn't considered a threat to repeat this year.

Waiting in the wings, both loaded for bear, are Flint St. Matthew and Ewen. Both teams have been running neck and neck in the weekly Associated Press Class D poll.

But the road to East Lansing is strewn with "can't miss" labels and broken dreams.

"I never plan in terms of a state tournament because it's a tough row to hoe," says St. Matthew's Coach Jack Pratt. "Any one bad night can ruin the whole thing."

Pratt's team is small by modern standards. The leading scorer is a 5-foot-10 forward, John Sperla, who averages 27 points. The biggest men are 6-foot-2 Paul Starova, carrying an average of 14 rebounds, and Jerry Killian, the same height.

But the Panthers are quick and score on every other shot, boasting a 51.2 per cent team shooting accuracy average.

Pratt says Joey Keaton, a 5-10 guard who specializes on defense is the backbone of his team.

"He's our leader and keeps our defense awake," said Pratt.

St. Matthew will be tested when district play opens Feb. 27, Pratt said, because "in the last eight years, the winner of our district has gone on to the quarterfinals or better."

Ewen, an Ontonagon County hamlet in East Upper Michigan, has that one essential all coaches dream about the big man.

He is 6-foot-9 Terry Conrad, averaging 25 points and 20 to 25 rebounds a game.

"He's a good defensive player and blocks a lot of shots," says Bulldogs' Coach Rudy Perhalla, in his first year at Ewen. "On our fast break, he gets the ball right out there."

Perhalla, a social studies teacher from Wisconsin, replaced Tom Thornton as coach this year and admits he doesn't know much about other Class D contenders.

Around the U. P., Perhalla can start worrying about Hermansville, a tough little ball club with a couple of gunners named Randy Fochesato and Len Welling, Trenary, who has 6-foot-1 Kim Peterson, and Republic, a steady team with Wayne Kerkela the top marksman.

Fowler, a mid-Michigan team with a lot of downstate backers, and Adrian Catholic, which has good scoring punch in Eric Wilkins and Tom Muldary, are top contenders., Catholic's main problem seems to be in getting by a full-court press.

In Michigan's thumb country, the local folks like Peck where Coach Larry Volz depends on the scoring of Jack Judge and Bob Quinland, and in Southeastern Michigan, Pontiac St. Michael has strong support.

Bay City St. Joseph has strong backing in the Saginaw Bay Bay area and North Adams in Hillsdale County may be a sleeper.

Packer Payoff Is New Record

HONOLULU (AP)—It's great to be a Green Bay Packer. For winning two football games in January, each Packer soon will receive a check for $24,813.63. That makes them the Internal Revenue Bureau's best friends.

This unprecedented payoff for a champion in team sports became official Monday night when the National Football League announced the record individual player shares for the title game between the Packers and the Dallas Cowboys.

Everybody knew the Packers had won $15,000 each by beating Kansas City, the American Football League champions, in the Super Bowl, 35-10. But nobody knew the exact amount of their total earnings until the figures for the Jan. 1 game in the Cotton Bowl were released by Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Each winning Packer gets $9,813.63 for beating Dallas 34-27, each losing Cowboy collects $6,527.85. Each voted 50 shares. The Packer take in the two big postseason games exceeded earlier estimates of $23,500 and almost reached the $25,000 mark.

In fact, eight Packers who were on the losing West team in the Pro Bowl game added another $900 and did zoom into the stratosphere of $25,713.63. The eight included Willie Wood, Willie Davis, Forrest Gregg, Bob Skoronski, Bart Starr, Herb Adderley, Henry Jordan and Dave Robinson.

Only 21 Upper Peninsula Teams Undefeated In Last 16 Seasons

By JIM TRETHEWEY

In the last 16 years, only 21 Upper Peninsula high school teams have compiled perfect records in scheduled basketball competition.

L'Anse, the reigning U.P. and Michigan Class C king, and Wakefield are about ready to join that select group.

Going into the final week of the 1966-67 campaign, Wakefield has a 16-0 record and L'Anse a 15-0 mark. The latter now has won 24 games in succession, including two season and seven tournament contests a year ago.

Wakefield won Nos. 15 and 16 by beating Hurley, Wis., 99-64, and Iron River, 86-62, while L'Anse had an easy time whipping Hancock — the last team to defeat the Hornets — 103-56, for No. 15.

Nobody has come real close to stopping either of the all-winning quintets. L'Anse's narrowest margin was a 69-60 decision at Calumet. Superior (Wis.) Cathedral was Wakefield's toughest opponent, dropping a 73-66 game on the Cardinals' court.

Both clubs have captured championships in their respective conferences, Wakefield finishing four games ahead of runners-up Ironwood and Superior Cathedral in the Michigan-Wisconsin circuit and L'Anse clinching the Copper Country crown at least two games in front of Houghton.

Wakefield's Cardinals should have no trouble running out the regular season with another victory. They'll be home Saturday night to Baraga, which has won only two of 16 games.

L'Anse, however, may run into trouble. The Purple Hornets of Coach Bill Popp meet a sometimes troublesome Lake Linden quintet, then play Houghton (11-4) in the season's windup.

Two of Houghton's setbacks were at the hands of the undefeated powerhouses, by 75-56 at L'Anse and by 83-73 at home against Wakefield.

Alcohol Potential Seen In Cellulose

By ROSE LaCHAPELLE

It is possible that ultimately a process may be worked out for utilizing the cellulose of wood for the production of alcohol commercially, Robert C. Taylor, acting chairman of the University of Michigan chemistry department states.

This process is feasible, he said, although currently starch from potatoes and corn is used in the production.

The wood cellulose is chemically very similar to starch. It is much less reactive than starch and consequently is more difficult to convert into the desired product.

"It may be some time before a good commercial process is worked out using cellulose. Even then, one will have the problem of what to do with the lignin which is another component of wood and probably will not ferment to give any desired products," he stated.

Studies apparently have not been made, he said, on utilizing wood for alcohol for heating purposes, probably because it would not be economical. It would be cheaper to burn the wood directly than to convert the wood to alcohol.

A considerable volume of chemical wood seeks market in the peninsula.

An alcohol-burning stove has been developed and currently is receiving favorable report from yachtsmen. The report is of interest in this community, which once had an industry using iron ore, limestone, cordwood and lime to manufacture annually 36,500 tons of charcoal pig iron, 7.2 million pounds of acetate of lime and 600,000 gallons of wood alcohol. Another company made methonal, acetate of lime and charcoal from local hardwoods and lime. Sales of the companies were in central and eastern states for paints, varnishes, formaldehyde, acetone and acetic acid industries. From 20,000 cords of 4-foot wood, one of the companies made 230,000 gallons of wood alcohol, 4 million pounds of acetate of lime and a million bushels of charcoal.
